JAPANESE LABOR EMPLOYED.

Northeastern Missouri.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Macon, Mo., Oct. 18.—Three hundred Japanese laborers are working in the rock cuts and fills north of Elner, Macon County, on the Iowa and St. Louis railroad. This class of labor is employed owing to the tpad's inability to secure native workmen. Two-wheel mountain carts are used that look like vehicles of the Revolutionary period. The horses soon become acquainted with the route of haul, and no drivers are employed, but Japanese pickets, armed with sticks, are stationed along the line to "enthree" the animals when they become dilatory. The whole method seem to resemble the European system of labor of the Middle Ages, yet the rock is blasted and removed with great rapidity. The Japaness are smell, but compactly built, and perform wonders in lifting heavy rock. An old contractor remarked this morning that the Japaness rock gang in northern Macon County was the most curious and picturesque sight he had ever observed on railroad work.

An experimental plant was set up in this city near the Navy Yard. The most exhaustive tests have been made, but the work is still progressing, in the effort to determine the following points regarding liquid fuel:

1. Its evaporative efficiency, as compared with coal

2. The degree to which its consumption can be forced.

3. The value of liquid fuel brickettes, as compared with coal and oil.

4. The relative value of steam and air is atomizing agents for spraying the oil.

S. The comparative value of seasing types of burners.

A preliminary report was submitted on October I, showing the work of the board up to that date, but it is not yet ready for distribution. The board will make few deductions, believing it best that the data collected should speak for themselves, such that those interested in the question shall form their own conclusions.

Many inventors have presented their devices to the board, and some of them have been tested, but most of the work seems to have been done along false lines, and the results are unsatisfactory.

Commander John R. Edwards, senior member of the board is very much oneouraged over the results of the tests, however.

couraged over the results of the tests, however.

"It will not be the navy," he said, "but the country at large, which will be the great beneficiary of these experiments. It seems almost providential that the delariment should have started this extended series of tests months before there was even a hint that there might be a probability of a coal famine. When the results are made public it will cause thousands of inventors to work along proper lines, and there will be an impetus to the use of oil fuel that will be surprising.

"It is earnestly to be hoped that at the next session of Congress another specific appropriation for testing liquid fuel will be made under the direction of the same board. The appropriation should include the burning of oil in small volumes so that its advantages for domestic purposes could be ascertained."

SIXTY-EIGHTH YEAR OF OLD CATHEDRAL

Anniversary Services at the Walnut Street Church Attended by Great Crowd.

SERMON OF FATHER HEUBER.

Mass Celebrated by the Reverend Father Taylor, Who Was Assisted by Reverend Father Murphy of San Francisco.

The sixty-eighth anniversary of the dediration of the old Catholic Cathedral, on Walnut between Second and Third streets. was celebrated with elaborate ceremonics esterday. One of the largest crowds which has assembled in the historical edifice since the funeral of Archbishop Kenrick was present at the solemn high mass, which cas celebrated at 10:30.

At this mass an historical sermon was preached by the Reverend Father Heuber of St. Vincent de Paul's Church. He out-lined the work accomplished by the early Cathelle clergy of St. Louis, and told of the incidents connected with the building of the cathedral.

Low masses were said at 5 and 8 o'clock. of Congress $20,000 was appropriated to de-fray the expenses of experiments to deter-communicants, a special indulgence being communicants, a special indulgence being granted to those approaching the holy sactament. The congresation at the late mass was composed largely of former parishioners of the Cathedral, who have moved to distant parts of the city. Present were many representatives of the old French families of St. Louis.

The celebrant of the selemn high mass was the Reverend Father M. J. Taylor. He was assisted by the Reverend Father F. H. Murphy of San Francisco and the Reverend Father F. H. At the high mass and benediction of the blessed sucrament, which followed, an elaborate musical programme was rendered by the Cathedral choir, under the direction of Professor B. S. Delizie, organist. There was a double choir, besides siveral siring and reed instruments. In part the fleverend Pather Heuber said:

This world is the great temple of the living God. His divinity is manifest everywhere. His minite massiy shines forth from every direction; in the sky above us, through the fields, on the mountain tops, in the deputs of the ever resiless sea; yes, even in the marts of commerce, in the crowded city, teening with human life.

"To worship God in the great temple of nature, should be as natural for man as to breathe, as to think, and it was so before the corruption of the primeval tradition."

"For we read in the brook of Genesis how."

For we read in the book of tenesis, now the sous of Adam went out in the open field to offer sacrifice to the fiving God. In time God found it necessary to com-mand the building of a tabernacle and later on of a temple as a memorial of the later on of a temple as a memorial of the people's obligation to render suitable wor-ship to the Deity. After the establishment of the church by Jesus Christ, the faith-ful worshiped in the sand pits in the quar-ries and in the entacombs until the follow-ers of the crucified were telerated above ground, in A. When Columbus discovered America, he brought with him the intrepld missionary and the faithful monk, who even in the earliest years reared in the New World monuments like those in the older lands. So when Bishop Flaget of Bardslown, accompanied by the venerable Fellx de Andreas, the Reverend Henry Fratt and Brother Blorka, reached St. Louis on October 17, 1817, their hearts were filled with grief on finding a miserable frame structure that the people, the few scattered faithful called a church.

Here isbored the Reverends Aquaroni, Cellini, Damann, Ferrari, Bacari, Sicardi and a host of others, whose names are a household term in the history of the church of St. Louis.

"Here the oldest families of the city have found their origin in the sacred vows made in the sacrament of matirimony, and here, before the altar, when life's fiftil battle was over were their hones brought to be blessed before they were consigned to their last resting place. Here their children and their children's children learned God's law and their duties and responsibilities as dutiful children of the church and the Republic. This place is holy because here the incarnate God. Jeaus Christ has taken up his abode in the sacrament of the sitar; has made it his abode, and has dwelt in the midst of us, to bless us, to guide us, to console us. Yes, this is a holy place and should be dear to all the people of our city.

"Pray that the God who has been so prollife in blessing the people of this place may continue to bless and prosper them. Pray, too, that they may, after the example of the faithful ones who have lived here and sanctified their lives here by using this bountiful supply of grace, continue to walk in their footsteps and reverence and support this house of God, made venerable through its long years of service.

Youngest Convict in the United States Pardoned at Jackson.

REPURLIC SPECIAL.

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 19.—Willie Evans, the youngest convict in the United States, was paraoned from the penitentiary last night by Governor Longino.

Willie is now approaching his ninth year, and has been in the prison about one year, serving a three-year term on the charge of robbery. He was sent up from Jackson county by Judge Neville on the charge of stealing 500 from a store near Moss Point. There is considerable doubt as to the intention of the boy to steal the money, and it is not believed that he realized its value, the greenbacks being wrapped up in a sheet of paper.

When Willie was brought to the penitentiary the officers were in a dilemma. They did not know what to do with such a youngster, and there was no ready-made clothing on hand to fit him. When the register cierk started to take his description it was necessary to hunt around and find a yard stick, the regulation standard used for older criminals refusing to silde down far enough to touch the top of his curiy head. It was finally decided to make him a messenger boy, at the warden's office, and he served quite faithfully in the role and became a well-known figure on the streets of Jackson.

During his incarecration Willie saved 50.65 from the tips given him by visitors at the prison, and he will start a bank account upon reaching home. He expresses much regret on leaving prison, and has formed a fond attachment for the officials who have treated him with great kindness.

Charleston, III., Oct. 13.—While going through the early Circuit Court records for indexing purposes several suits brought by Abraham Lincoln have been discovered. Mr. Lincoln was a member of the bar of the Eastern Illinois Circuit in the fifties, and the records show that he got his share of the legal business.

One suit in which he obtained a judgment of $2,000 for his elient was that of Samuel Triplett vs. William Neff. The date is list, and Lincoln's name appears three times in the declaration.

In this connection it has also come to light that a number of documents which he drew up or acknowledged has had his signature neath cut out. This is believed to be the work of Eastern autograph hunters, it new being recalled that several strangers have been examining the early records in the past few years.

preacher, and the two were buried side by side.

All of their lives the two brothers had been companions. Charles being two years the older. They worked at the same trade, civil engineering, and at the time they were taken suck both were in the emilipy of the Terminal Haifroad Association as rodmen. The doctors think that they contracted the typhoid fever, which was the cause of their deaths, while working in low, swampy places. A month ago, when the first signs of illness appeared, they were living with their mother, Mrs. Nancy Judy, who is a successful the St. Nicholas. -R. Waterworks Bonds Voted and Many Improvements Promised. REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

South McAlester, L. T., Oct. 12.—South McAlester to-day rolled up a magnificent majority at a special election held to vote $150,000 in bonus for waterworks and a sowerage system. There were only seven dissenting votes on the proposition.

There is great rejoicing here to-night, as a number of important industries, including the Missouri, Kansas and Texas division and shops, a $50,000 hotel and Government offices, practically hinged on the waterworks question. Great activity is expected here at once. An electric railway connecting this city with six adjoining towns will be in course of construction within thirty days.
